Melanie Lorenz is an assistant professor of international marketing at the University of Toledo. Her PhD is from the University of Alabama and her research is focused on micro- and macro-level issues in the international, primarily in the emerging market, context. Specifically, her interests include global marketing strategy, innovation, global work in multinational enterprises, and creativity. Her research has been published in journals such as Journal of World Business, International Marketing Review, and International Research in Marketing.